This book is devoted to the philosophical analysis of the most important problems of world development and the prospects of global management. Based on the rich factual material and a holistic understanding of the world, the author shows how modern globalization has made not individual territories and regions an arena of interaction, but the entire space of the Earth. As a result, humanity has encountered many global problems. At the same time, the global world is only weakly regulated, but completely deprived of management. This gives rise to the most acute contradictions in the world community. How to change the situation? According to the author, people must learn to “think – globally, and act – together”! It is concluded that humanity is facing the need for a global civilizational revolution aimed at the formation of planetary civil society and the transition in international relations from the “right of power” to the “power of law”.

Эта книга посвящена философскому анализу наиболее важных проблем мирового развития и перспективам глобального управления. Опираясь на богатый фактический материал и целостное понимание мира, автор показывает, как современная глобализация сделала ареной взаимодействия людей уже не отдельные территории и регионы, а все пространство Земли. В итоге человечество столкнулось с множеством глобальных проблем. При этом глобальный мир только слабо регулируется, но совсем лишен управления. Это порождает острейшие противоречия в мировом сообществе. Как изменить ситуацию? По мнению автора, люди должны научиться «мыслить – глобально, а действовать – совместно!» Делается вывод, что человечество стоит перед необходимостью глобальной цивилизационной революции, направленной на формирование планетарного гражданского общества и переход в международных отношениях от «права силы» к «силе права».
